

PRESS RELEASE

Safran Passenger Innovations Launches New IFE Software Platform

02 March 2022, Brea, California

Safran Passenger Innovations (SPI) is excited to announce the launch of Safran's latest software platform, RAVE OS, with All Nippon Airways (ANA) on Boeing 787-9 Dreamliner, STARLUX on A330 and A321, and Virgin Atlantic on A350 amongst other airlines.

RAVE OS offers a modern user interface with features such as pinch to zoom, picture in picture, and multi-tasking capabilities creating a passenger experience comparable to that of the latest consumer technology products. RAVE OS also features the ability to run 3rd party applications, play 4K content and provides an immersive experience with full cabin Bluetooth audio. Keeping with the essence of RAVE DNA (Reliable, Affordable and Very Easy), RAVE OS maintains its common core and a configurable and brandable UI, ease of maintenance and lowest Total Cost of Ownership.

RAVE OS is paired with SPI's latest ULTRA displays featuring RAVE's game changing docking station with display sizes ranging from 13.3" to 43" and high-power USB-C (60 watts) in every seat.

Matt Smith, CEO of Safran Passenger Innovation, states "We are thrilled to deliver a product that encapsulates the key innovations we have been developing over the last 3 years, driven by customer and passenger needs. As we continue to grow and innovate, we will prioritize investment in products that make a difference to our customers".
