After obtaining the renewal of the “Responsible Supplier Relations” label in November 2019, Safran is now aiming to obtain the « Responsible Supplier Relations and Purchasing » label which replaces it.

Safran has made several commitments aimed at supporting its suppliers’ development that have bears fruit: the renewal of its “Responsible Supplier Relations” label, that represents a genuine means of leveraging transformation in the Group, and has enabled Safran to improve its relationships with suppliers, and particularly with its small and medium-sized partners.

Thanks to these policies, Safran will apply in 2020 for the « Responsible Supplier Relations and Purchasing » label. Supported by the French public authorities, this label acknowledges that the commitments of the Responsible Supplier Relations Charter are applied in the company, in addition to the recommendations of ISO 20400, the international standard on responsible purchasing.

*Created in 2012, this label is attributed to French companies or public entities that can demonstrate their commitment to long-term, balanced relations with their suppliers.
