UNDERSTANDING OUR DATA

Safran Nacelles is responsible for the design, development and manufacture of nacelles for a wide range of aircraft – from business jets to large commercial aircraft.

Currently we have a higher percentage of female employees who occupy more senior roles at a higher salary. As a result, our overall gender pay gap is minus 2.44%.

Our Bonus Pay Gap shows that on average, females received 100% more than males in the year leading up to 05 April 2023. The reason for this is because of a bonus payment made to the ‘Collective Bargaining’ population of the workforce which is 96% male and 4% female.

Our overall workforce consists of 15% female and 85% male. As a result, the average bonus payment for males was heavily influenced by a one off bonus payment made to all eligible employees.
