

Zodiac Aerospace strengthens its wiring protection business

ZODIAC AEROSPACE TO ACQUIRE CANADIAN CANTWELL CULLEN & COMPANY

Monday, June 21, 2010 - Zodiac Aerospace has signed an agreement to buy the business of Cantwell Cullen & Company, based in Canada. The transaction is subject to anti-trust authorization, and its closing is expected before the end of June 2010.

Cantwell Cullen & Company is a Canadian leader in the area of protected wire harnesses, electrical assemblies and hydraulic hoses for aerospace, defense, and industrial applications. This group, founded over 25 years ago by Peter Cullen, employs over 200 people at its sites in London and Oakville, Ontario.

Cantwell Cullen & Company will strengthen the positions of the Interconnect Systems Division of Zodiac Aerospace (Aerosafety & Technology segment) in the field of electrical and hydraulic interconnection for aerospace applications, where Zodiac Aerospace hold leadership position in particular regarding landing gear and fuel tanks protections wiring.

Zodiac Aerospace is a world leader in aerospace equipment and systems, intended for commercial, regional, and business aircrafts, as well as helicopters and space. Zodiac Aerospace has 19,000 employees worldwide and generated revenues of € 2.2 billion in 2008/2009, through its three business segments: Aerosafety & Technology, Aircraft Systems and Cabin Interiors.
